The Eulogy of Finn Michael Kariuki Ndegwa

Birth and Early Life

Finn Michael Kariuki Ndegwa, fondly referred to as Finn, was born at Ruai Family Hospital on the 15th of June 2018 at 1045hrs, to loving parents Dan Ndegwa Kariuki and Margaret Wangari Muriu. He was a doting brother to 10-month-old Quilan Mathew Muriu Ndegwa, and Half brother to Samara Mary Wangari. He was dedicated to the Lord on 26th March 2023, at Mamlaka Hill Chapel, City Campus where his family worships.

He is survived by paternal grandparents Francis Kariuki Kimani and Esther Wanjiru Kariuki, and maternal grandparents Willy Muriu Mwaura and Elizabeth Njoki Muriu. Finn was a beloved nephew to Uncles Anthony Mwangi, Edward Kimani, Samuel Kamau, Alex Mwaura, Roland Ebole and Norbert Mburu. He will be remembered fondly by Aunties Ann Njeri, June Nduta, Lyne Nyakio, Vera Atieno, Janet Wangari and Vanessa Ndinda.

Finn shared endless memories with Cousins Sandra, Gian, Jayden, Ellyn, Edison, Tasha, Imani, Kenna, Morani and Layi.

School and Character

He started his school journey in the year 2021 at Garvin's Academy at Fedha, Embakasi, before later moving to St. Vincent Pallotti Academy in Dagoretti. At school, he was a very sharp boy whose favourite subjects were Mathematics and English. He was well connected with his classmates and was even trusted to serve as a class prefect. He was deeply loved by most of the children for his generosity and good manners, and he never got into trouble with his teachers, standing out as one of the most disciplined pupils at school.

Many of us remember Finn as kind, energetic, intelligent and attentive; traits that came to life at St. Vincent Pallotti, where he was a Grade Three student. He had many hobbies, including playing football, swimming, cycling, skating, memory games, video games and going on adventurous trips with his family. He had a vast collection of toy cars, whose brand names he knew by heart, thanks to his sharp memory.

Ailment and Hospitalization

Finn accidentally hurt his left knee in March 2026, while playing with friends at their home in Nairobi. He was promptly taken to hospital, where upon a scan and review, he was given medication and discharged. After about three weeks, his condition did not improve, and out of concern, his parents took him back to hospital for further check up. On this visit, he was diagnosed with a lung infection and pneumonia, for which he received treatment.

Unfortunately, despite medication, Finn's health continued to deteriorate, and further tests showed symptoms associated with Tuberculosis. He was put on Tuberculosis medication in April 2026. During this time, Finn lost a lot of weight, and struggled with breathing and appetite. His health improved slightly but then took a turn for worse towards the end of April. Concerned, his father took him back to hospital on 7th May 2026 for a check up, as they were getting a refill of the Tuberculosis prescription. Upon this visit to Riruta Sub-county Hospital, the doctors were alarmed at the state of his breathing, among other test results, and immediately put him on oxygen. They further referred him to Mbagathi County Hospital because at the time all signs were showing that he was suffering from TB, (which is only treated at government facilities) where he was rushed and admitted on the same day.

He remained at Mbagathi Hospital under the care of doctors and loved ones. Further tests showed a widespread infection in his lungs, which had also spread to his bones and spinal cord. On the back of this diagnosis he was referred to Kenyatta Hospital on 16th May 2026, for further treatment.

At Kenyatta Prime Care Centre, he went through a wide range of tests and scans as the doctors and specialists worked to identify the root cause of his ailment. Finn would spend another three weeks at Kenyatta Hospital on oxygen and with marginal improvements to his health. Throughout the ordeal, Finn showed an incredible strength and grace that could only come from God. He smiled, he engaged in conversation, he diligently took his medication and submitted himself to the numerous tests without complaint.

Demise

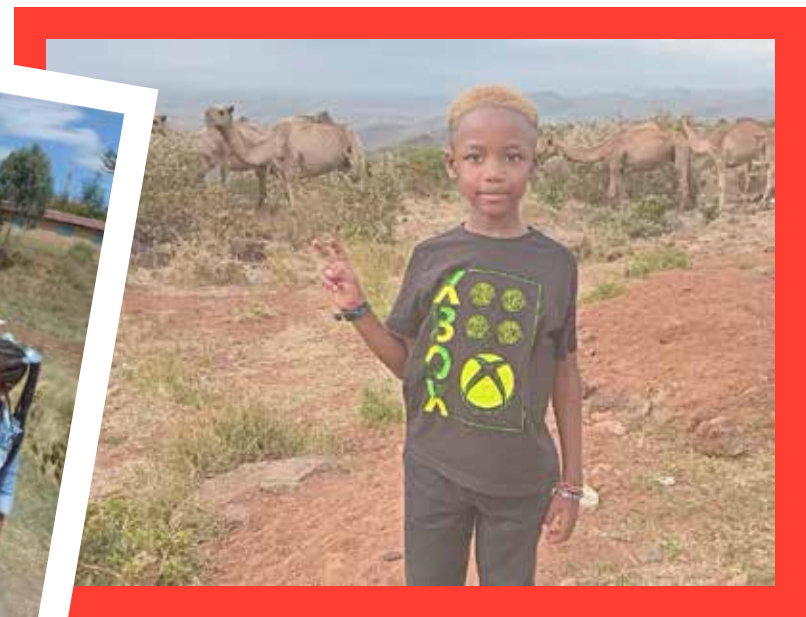

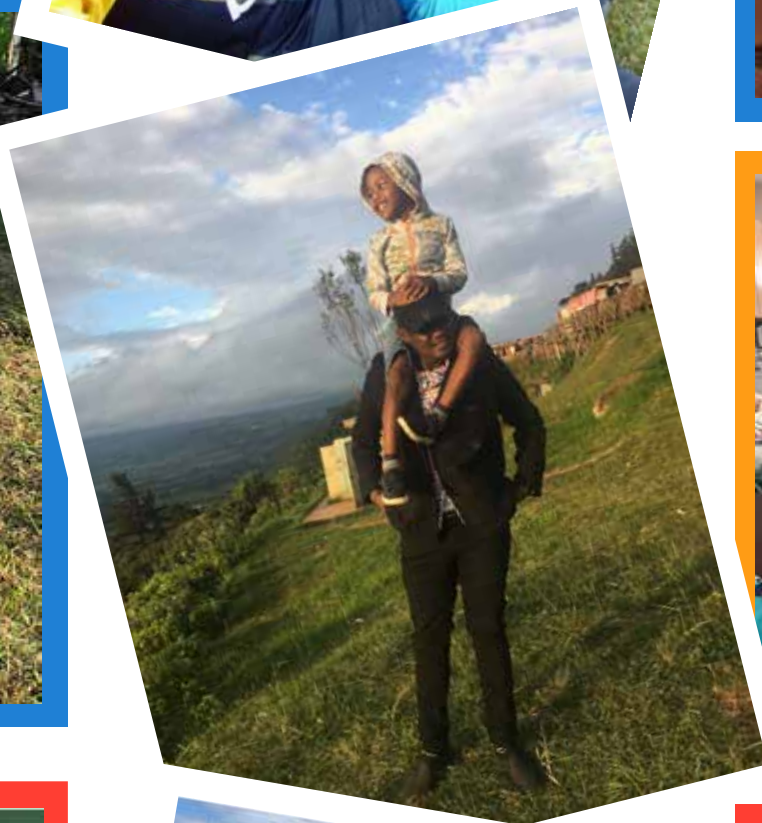

On the night of Wednesday 10th June 2026, with Cucu Mama Tony by his side, Finn complained of a tummy ache. Despite efforts by the hospital staff to give him reprieve, Finn deteriorated rapidly and breathed his last at just a few minutes before 12 midnight. He was in grade 3 at the time of his demise.

We will miss you deeply Finn, but knowing you are with Jesus, and relieved of all pain, gives us comfort. We thank the almighty God for the incredible 7 years and the awesome memories we created.

Until we meet again, Rest in Peace champ.

An Angel on Earth, Now an Angel in Heaven
Seven Years of Pure Light and Love

To the world, you were a sweet, kind seven-year-old boy. But to me, Finn, you were my absolute best friend, the human being I loved the most in the entire world, and the purest soul I have ever known.

Losing you on the 10th has broken my heart in ways I never thought possible especially knowing you gained your angel wings just four days before your 8th birthday. The thought of a future without your laughter, your gentle presence, and our shared moments is a weight too heavy to bear. Yet, as I look back on the time God blessed us with you, my heart is overwhelmed with immense gratitude. God gives, and He takes away and I truly believe He saw how incredibly pure your spirit was, both in body and soul, and decided this cruel world was not gentle enough for you. He wanted you home with Him. You have a direct ticket to Heaven, of that I am 100% sure.

Our Unforgettable Saturdays & Shared Dreams

Finn, you were my ultimate road trip partner. Every single Saturday, we had our beautiful routine that I will cherish for the rest of my days. I will always remember us pedaling side-by-side on our bicycles, leaving home and heading to the Ngong Road Sanctuary Forest. We would ride our loop through the quiet of the trees, sharing that peaceful space together.

On our way back, we never missed passing by the Talanta Stadium and the horse ranch near the Jamhuri Showground. You absolutely admired that stadium. We sat and talked about the future, dreaming of the day we would sit side-by-side in those stands to watch the opening matches of the AFCON together. It breaks my heart that we won't get to experience that roar of the crowd in person, but I know that from the best seat in Heaven, you will be watching.

You became an Arsenal fan because of me always wanting to be on my side, to share in my passions. But you weren't just a follower; you had a beautiful, independent moral compass. Whenever I was on the wrong side of things, you gently but firmly stood your ground on the right side. You taught me so much about integrity, just by being you.

A Beacon of Universal Kindness

You were a boy who actively ran away from trouble, choosing peace at every turn. Your heart was so big, and your hands were always open. Whether it was your food, your toys, or your bicycle, you shared everything so willingly and kindly with other children. You lived a life completely free of conflict, radiating nothing but warmth.

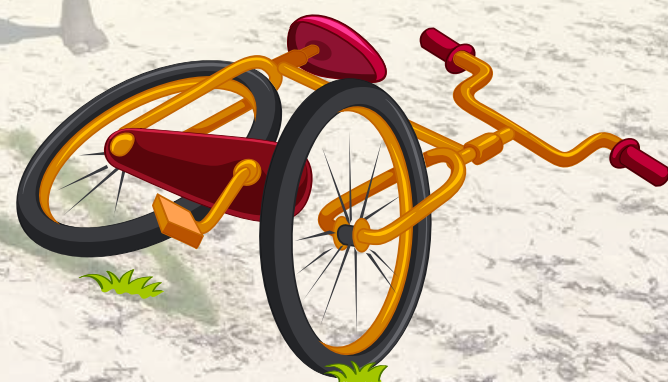

Because of this, you were deeply loved by everyone who crossed your path. Your light was undeniable, and if there was ever anyone who didn't like you, it was simply a reflection of their own internal issues, because you gave the world nothing but goodness.

It brings me profound sadness that you didn't get more time to bond with your 10-month-old baby brother, Mathew Muriu. But even in the short time you had, I saw the immense love you held for him. I watched how you looked at him, and I know without a single shadow of a doubt that you would have made the most incredible, protective, and awesome big brother to him. I will make sure he grows up knowing exactly who his big brother Finn was.

Finn, you were my best friend, and you always, always will be.

Thank you, Almighty God, for the gift of Finn. Thank you for the honor of being his parent.

Rest in eternal peace, my beautiful, sweet boy. You are pure, you are safe, and you are loved forever. Until we ride together again, my best friend.

From Mum, Margaret Wangari Murju

For My Son, Forever in My Heart.

From the moment you were placed in my arms, you changed my world forever. You are my firstborn the one who made me the mother I am today.

We walked through life together, you and I, a mother and her son. We shared hopes and dreams for tomorrow, but tomorrow never came.

My heart breaks every day knowing I can no longer see you or hear your voice. Even hearing your name still brings tears to my eyes. Silent are the tears I cry as I ache for the laughter you once brought into my life.

Sometimes, without warning, something reminds me of you. It may be a word someone says, a familiar place, or a cherished memory and suddenly it all comes rushing back again.

You filled my life with dreams, hope, and endless love. Thank you for the love you gave so freely, the strength you continue to give me each day, and the memories that will never fade.

You were my beloved son, and I was blessed beyond measure to be your mother.

I will speak your name, share your story, and honor your beautiful spirit for the rest of my days.

And though it hurts to remember how things used to be, I hold on to the promise that one day we will be reunited and then it will be for eternity.

From Brother, Quinlan Mathew Murju

To my big brother Finn, thank you for the incredible love you showed me during our short ten months together. Even though I am too little to fully understand right now, I know I had the best big brother in the whole world, and I will grow up listening to stories of your pure kindness, your bicycle adventures, and your big heart. I promise to look after Dad and Mom down here, and I know you will be watching over me from the best seat in Heaven. Happy 8th heavenly birthday, Finn; you will always be my hero.

From Care Giver, Mercyline Halima Masika

Finn was such a young, intelligent, and obedient child. Having known him for the past five months, there are no words for this kind of pain. I am here to remember him with the family, to cry, to sit in silence and to help in any way I can. May his soul rest in peace. Warmest hugs and love to his family during this heartbreaking time.

Paternal Grandmother

Since the very first day you were born, I was there to hold you. Pressing you close to my heart brought a warmth into my life that I had never known before. You grew into such a joyful, happy boy, and my favorite view will always be watching you ride your bicycle freely around the farm, full of life and laughter. You had a beautiful way of making the whole house feel alive. I will forever miss the way you would eagerly tell your dad who wasn't just your father, but truly your best friend to bring you over to see me, your shosho. Those days we spent together, sitting on the floor and playing with your toys, are treasures I will hold onto forever. I remember so clearly the day you drove me to Ngong town; you were such a sharp, brilliant boy who learned everything so incredibly fast. You filled me with so much pride.

When you fell ill, I stayed right by your side. I spent every moment with you in that hospital, from the very first day to the very last. I took care of you with everything I had. I loved you, I fed you, and I changed you. I watched over you every single second, praying that you could feel the depth of your shosho's love surrounding you. I miss the sweet sound of your voice calling my name, and the gentle way you would talk to me and tell me how you were feeling. I have so many beautiful memories with you, my sweet boy, that I wish I could write them all down, but they are forever etched into my soul.

When the time came, I held you close. I watched you take your last breath in my arms. At first, I fondly thought you were just fast asleep, but you were already gone, slipping away peacefully into rest.

My heart broke that day, but my love for you will never fade. I will always love you, and I will miss you every single day, my precious boy Finn. You are forever in my heart, woven into the very fabric of who I am.

Sleep well, my darling. Fly high with the angels.

Paternal Grandfather

Finn, my beloved grandson, learning of your departure has left a devastating void in my heart. When I looked at you, I didn't just see the present; I saw a magnificent future. I saw a brilliant leader who would guide others with wisdom, a compassionate doctor who would heal, and a daring pilot who would soar to unimaginable heights. Above all else, I saw you as the ultimate icon of our family—the pillar of our strength and the pride of our lineage.

Though your journey on this earth was far too brief, and the dreams we held for you feel entirely unfulfilled, the impact of your spirit remains. You achieved the highest calling of all: you united us in absolute love.

Rest now, my sweet grandson. You no longer need wings to fly, nor worldly titles to be our icon. You are forever safe in our memories, forever cherished, and forever rested in perfect peace. I loved the way, when I always asked you who you were talking to through the phone you would answer "Guka for Kiambu". Grandpa loves you, always.

Paternal Cousins

There are no words that can truly express the pain of saying goodbye to our beloved Baby Finn.

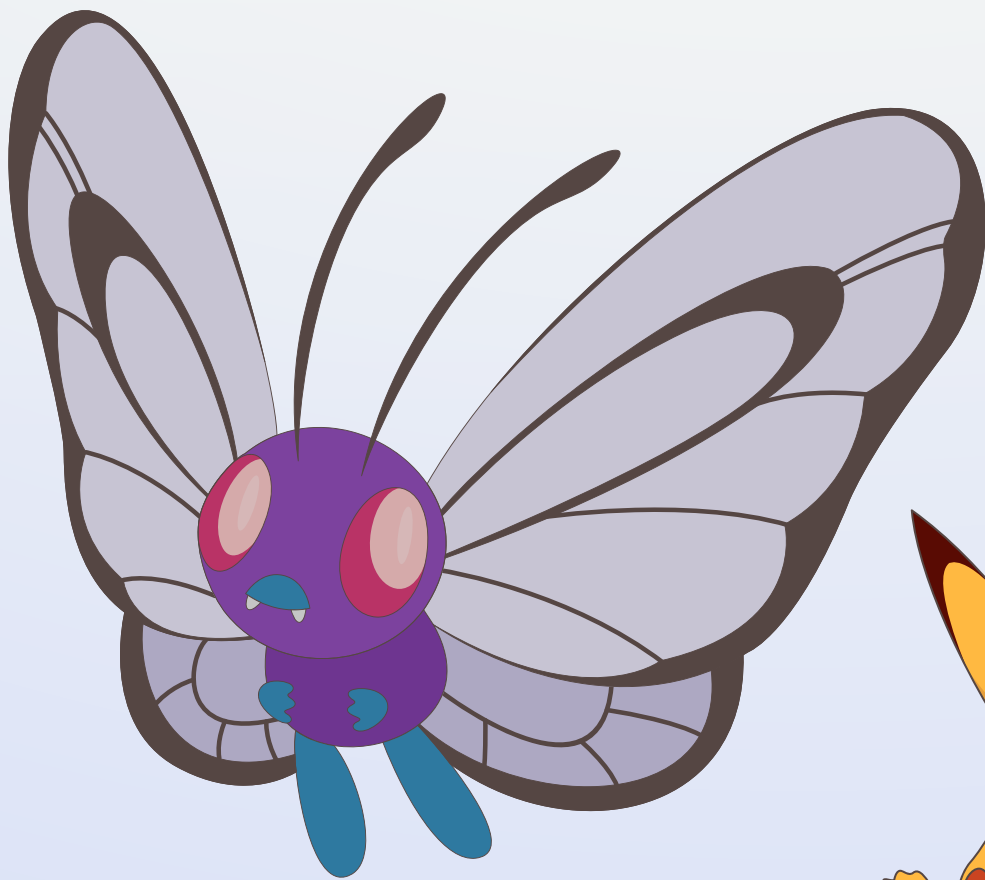

As your cousins, we were blessed to know a little boy with the gentlest heart. You were soft-spoken, calm, loving, and brought happiness to everyone who had the privilege of knowing you.

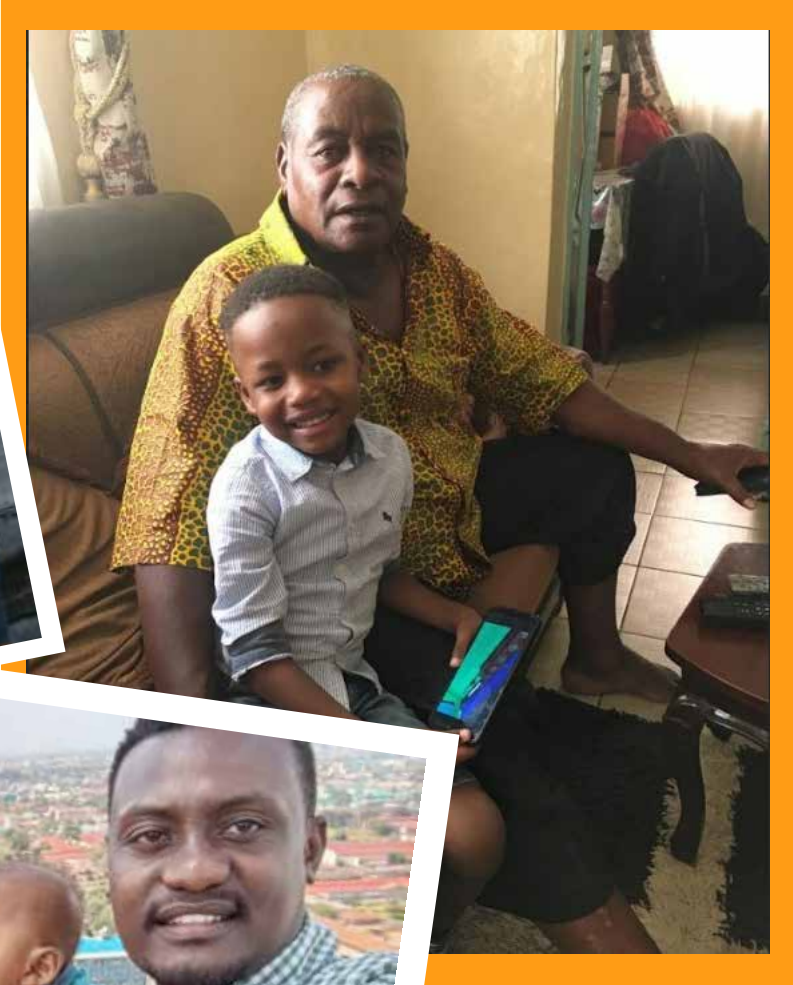

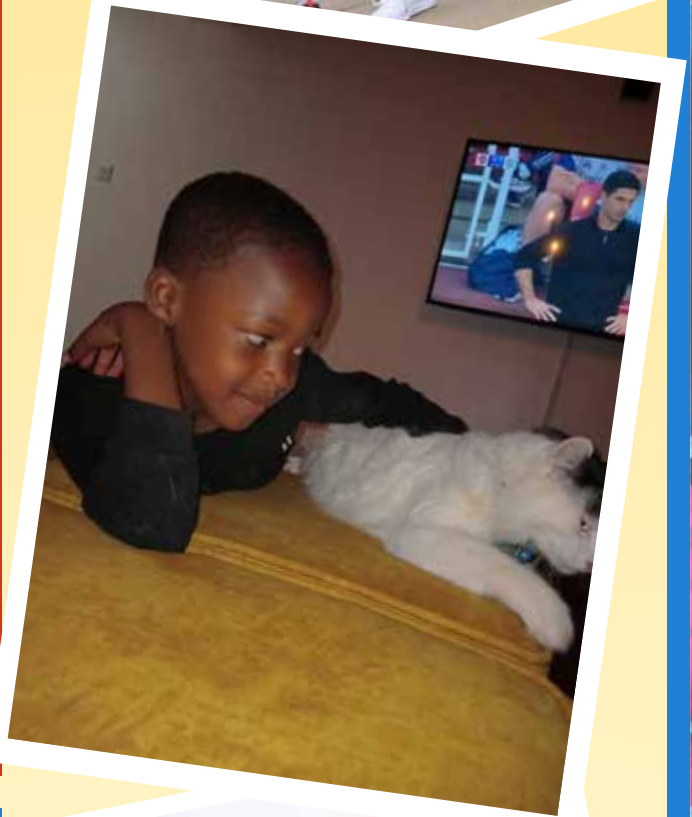

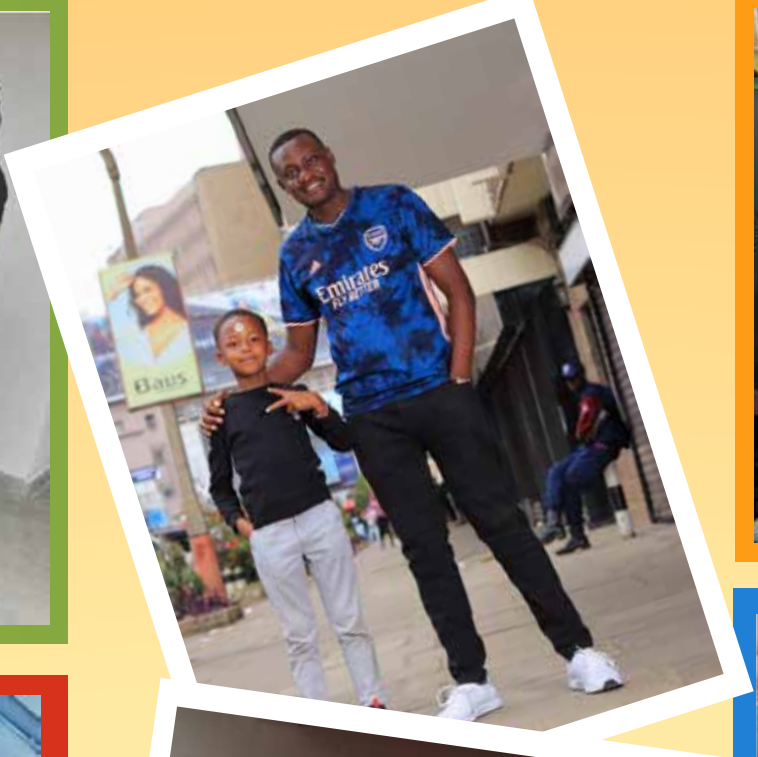

You had such a special love for cars. You could happily sit with your favourite snack and watch car cartoons for hours, and you loved riding your bike with so much excitement and joy. Those simple memories have now become treasures that we will carry forever. One of the most beautiful things about you was the incredible bond you shared with your dad. You called each other best friend, and watching the love between you always reminded us of how precious family truly is. You were loved beyond words. Every member of this family adored you, and your presence made every gathering brighter. Even our youngest cousins looked forward to seeing you, and your gentle nature touched hearts in ways you may never have known.

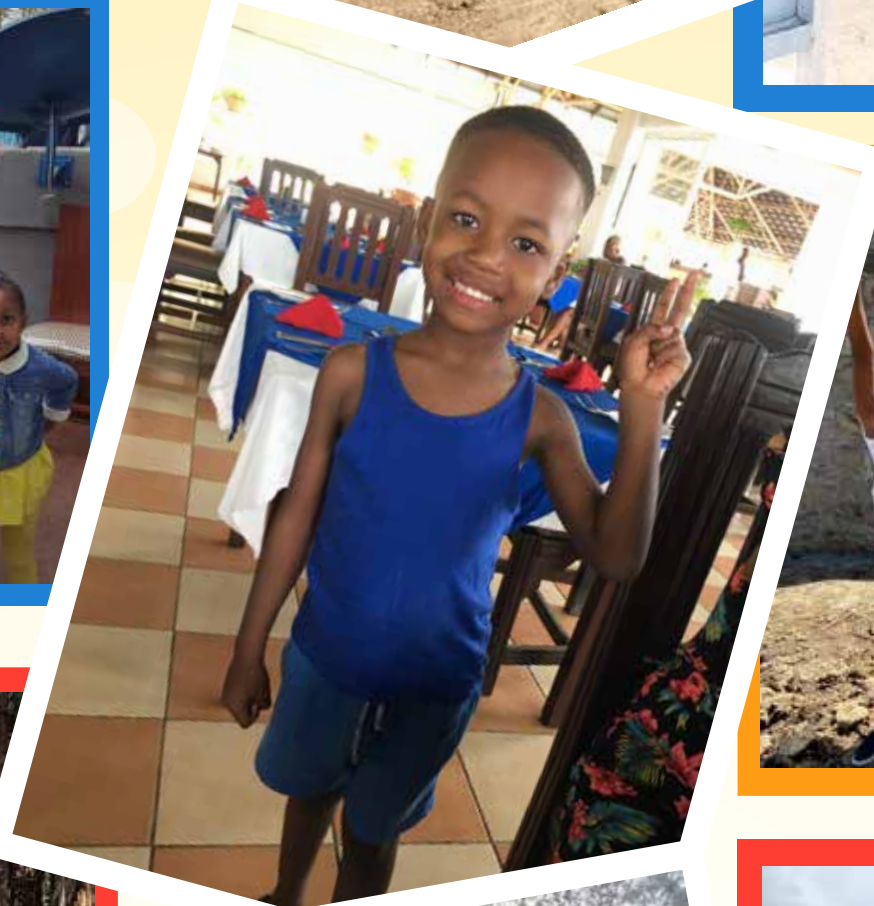

Your passing has left a space in our family that can never be filled. We grieve not only the memories we shared with you but also the memories we dreamed of making in the future your birthdays, your milestones, your laughter, and watching you grow into the wonderful person we know you would have become.

Although you are no longer physically with us, you will never leave our hearts. We will remember your smile, your kindness, your love for cars, your quiet strength, and the joy you brought into our lives. Every toy car, every bicycle, and every happy little child will remind us of you.

Thank you for every smile, every precious moment, and every memory you gave us. We were so blessed to call you our cousin. Rest peacefully, our sweet Baby Finn. You will forever be loved, forever missed, and forever remembered. Long Live Baby Finn

Maternal Cousins

Dear Finn, I miss playing with your toys and I really miss you. You were my friend and I really loved you. I miss having sleepovers with you and I know you miss me, your friends and your family

- Love, Layi

Dear Finn, How is it in heaven? I wish you were here. Finn, we are doing okay here and goofy misses you. Are there toys in heaven? I miss you

-Love, Kenna

Hey Finn, how have you been? I hope you are doing well. Even though you were sick, you were really brave. I have never seen a boy like you. I pray that your soul shall rest in peace. May you see all the animals you wanted to see while you were here on earth and play with all the toys that you have ever wanted. Even though you weren't able to celebrate your birthday here on earth, I bet it must be ten times better in heaven. Matthew is doing well. It has been such a long time since I saw you and it makes me miss you very much. I wish I could have seen you before you went to be with your Heavenly Father. Even though I am sad that you are gone, I know you are in a better place and there's no more pain, that makes me happy. I am sure you are so happy in heaven, dancing, singing and playing in a beautiful field, driving all your favorite cars and sitting in Jesus' arms. You must have gone through a lot of things when you were sick. I wish I could at least say goodbye or see you one more time. Happy birthday!

-Love, Morani

Dear Finn, I hope you are enjoying your time in heaven. When I heard that you were gone, I was so sad because I really thought you were going to get well and that we would have the joy of spending your birthday with you. I also hoped that we would go and see Cucu's new house in Nakuru. The fact that I didn't even get to say goodbye is the worst part.

I miss you so much because the last time I saw you was so long ago but I know that you are in a better place now. Your parents are devastated and sad, we are trying our best to comfort them. Your birthday was on Monday and we lit candles in your honor. I wish that you were here so that I can hear your adorable laugh and feel your contagious energy just one more time, but I can't and that's okay. We love you and wish you were here but we know that you are in heaven living your best life.

- Love, Njoki

Aunty Janet

My boy Finn, words fail me. How is this our reality? We prayed for your healing, trully your soul is healed. You are no longer in pain my son. You are running again, laughing loudly again. I hope they gave you the fastest bicycle for your birthday dear boy. We have cut the cake you ordered and celebrated your birthday. You did such a wonderful job with Mathew as we agreed,i promise to continue with the same agreement. Loving you was so easy, my heart aches but we shall be okay, time will soften it all and the photos and the memories will stay with us. I will love you forever and cherish the time God blessed me with you. Rest my child.

Aunty Vera

I have been looking for what to write but I keep coming short. Too many memories, too many great times...how can those be collapsed to mere words? How is it possible to describe how much joy you gave, how active you were, how sharp and intelligent you were, loving,kind, amazing with just words?

You stole my heart from the very moment I saw you. The handsome face that never stopped smiling. Watching you grow has been such a highlight of my life.

I will never forget when I hosted you and your cousins for DVBS at my house. That week, we laughed, sang, prayed, played as you and your cousins turned the house upside down.

I could talk about your inability to whisper and how you would wake up the earliest and immediately start shouting Good morning and begin busying yourself with activity. Or how particular you were with your food and how much it warmed my heart when I scored points with you as you complimented my cooking. Or how you could name so many animals!! It fascinated me just how your brain worked and anticipated to see what career path you would take.

As I write this now, I am left with pain but joy that you are with your Heavenly Father. In His loving arms you remain. When it is all said and done, at the end of the road, I hope I get to see and hug you one more time. Rest now.

Aunty Vanessa

When I first met Finn, it was love at first sight. He was the sweetest little boy, kind, wonderful, and so full of life. He always said exactly how he felt, and yet whenever you asked him how he was, no matter what he was going through, he would always look up at you and say, I m fine. And somehow, coming from him, you believed it.

Finn never went anywhere without his toys, and he never met a cousin he didn t want to play with. Some of our fondest memories are of him chasing Kiwi and Milo around the house, him seeing fireworks for the first time on New Year s, walking on my walking pad like it was the most exciting thing in the world, and wearing a hoodie five times his size because we simply didn t have baby clothes small enough for him, and he didn t mind. He just made every room he walked into a little brighter.

Finn, it was the greatest pleasure knowing you, and an even greater pleasure loving you. Rest well.

Auntie Lyne

Its painful to describe you our baby, I have watched you grow and bond with your cousins a bond that was inseparable. Whenever you were around all the toys were brought our of the closet not knowing you would also come armed with more, that's how playful you were. Your energy, curiosity, and innocent laughter brought happiness to everyone around. I will cherish the memories of your playful spirit, the weekend visits at our home to catch up with your cousins Shiro & Edison they will deeply miss you. I will find comfort in knowing that your gentle spirit will live on in our memories and the love that binds our family together.

Tributes

Today, I remember and celebrate the life of our precious Finn.

Although he left us before his 8th birthday on 15th June, his memory will forever remain alive in our hearts. Finn was a quiet, loving, and caring boy with a beautiful soul. He was a fast learner and had a special way of showing love to the people closest to him.

Finn had a great passion for cars. Anything related to cars would instantly light up his face. He also loved spending time with his dad, creating memories that will be cherished forever.

One of my most treasured memories of Finn is how much he loved my little baby. He would always come to see the baby and hold them so closely. The two of them would spend time talking on video calls, and watching their bond always filled my heart with warmth and joy.

I will never forget when I gave birth and Finn came to visit me, even though he was considered too young to be allowed in. That simple act showed just how much he loved and cared for others. He had such a kind and thoughtful heart.

When I visited him during his illness, I told him that he would get well soon. He looked at me with hope in his eyes, a look I will carry with me forever. I also told him that I would bring my baby to visit him, but in his caring way, he said no because children were not allowed. Instead, he said he would just video call her. Even during a difficult time, he was thinking about others.

Finn, you were loved more than words can ever express. Your gentle smile, your caring heart, and your beautiful spirit touched so many lives. Though you are no longer with us, you will always remain in our hearts.

Fly high with the angels, sweet Finn. You will forever be missed, forever loved, and forever remembered. Not a day goes by that I do not think of you and miss you deeply.

Until we meet again, you will always have a special place in my heart.

Rest peacefully, our precious Finn.

Uncle Eddie

I saw Finn a few hours after he was born and I have watched him grow up to a big/handsome boy.

His bright smile could light up any room "he had away he would smile" and his laughter was a source of comfort and happiness to everyone around him. He was full of curiosity, energy, and innocence, always eager to learn, play, and share his love with family and friends.

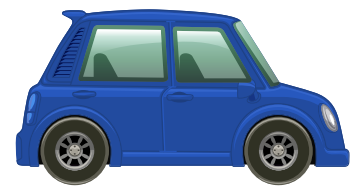

I remember one day Edison (my son) was being bullied by a bigger boy and Finn stepped up and told this boy to stop he was not afraid even though the other boy was bigger than him from then on I knew Edison/Ellyn had someone who would protect them. We still do not know how we will explain to them, why they won't video call and why Finn will not visit them. Man this guy's used to have fun over the weekend. I loved the way you knew almost all car models better than me at a tender age.

Your Memories will forever live on with Us. will not let any of them forget you. It's not easy and it's painful to us all.

Rest peacefully, our precious angel. You were deeply loved, and you will be dearly missed. Forever in our hearts.

Uncle Alex

I'll never forget the first time I noticed Finn was off. His family had come by our house for a visit. Normally, Finn would fill the house with his radiance and energy. My daughters would be chasing after him, trying to keep up with his unquenchable thirst for adventure. Getting him to sit down for a few minutes to have a bite was a task only his Father could accomplish. He laughed easily, he shared every thought and every observation, often so insightful that you would be left wondering how such a young mind could conjure up such a thought. I enjoyed conversations with Finn, getting drawn into his love for Cars and hearing stories of his escapades with his Dad. It took a while for him to become articulate, but that didn't stop him from speaking his mind. Having the patience to understand what he was saying drew me closer to him, and to think I will never get to look into those kind eyes and try to decipher the beginning and ending of his stories breaks my heart.

I miss you Finn, more than I thought possible, yet you've been gone only a few days. I know in my heart you are with Jesus, I know his Angels are also trying to keep up with your athletic self, but if it was up to me, I would keep you here with us for as long as possible. I was not done loving you, we were not done loving you Finn, but who knows the mind of God? His will is perfect, and the 7 years, 11 months and 28 days that he gave us with you is a gift I will treasure until my last breath. Farewell Finn, until we meet again.

Uncle Roland

Fly on, Finnie.

Finn, my sweet nephew, my son in spirit.

When we told your cousins the news that you had gone to be with the Lord, your cousin Kenna chanted for nearly an hour, refusing to let the world grow colder. "No, he's still here," she insisted. And she was right, Finnie. You are still here. In every shadow of a laugh, in every memory, and in the very fabric of our hearts.

I loved you so deeply, not just for the beautiful soul you were, but because you were an almost-twin to Layi. Whenever you were on your way, Layi would proudly announce your arrival to anyone who would listen. The moment you stepped through the door, the rest of the world faded for him. He'd pause every neighbourhood friendship just to soak in every single second with you. You weren't just cousins. You were two halves of the same joy.

The Ong'ayi family was always brighter, warmer, and more complete the moment you arrived.

Go gracefully into the light, my boy. May the angels be as blessed by your presence as we were.

Fly on, Finnie. You are forever loved and forever here.

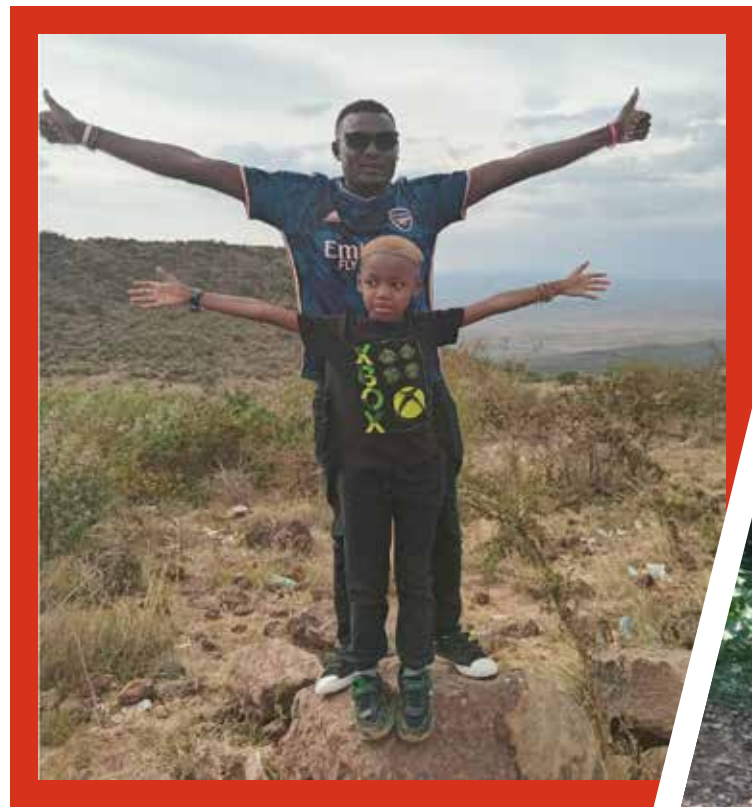

Uncle Norbert

I recall the excitement in the family back in 2018, when Finn was born. He was the first boy of the next generation in our family, and that made him special. And in many ways he was special; he had such a uniquely pure heart; so kind, simple, generous and lively. He was a genius with cars! I bet you he can name more car brands than all of us! At his core, Finn just wanted to play with his friends and go on adventures. That simplicity made him so easy to love. It was a great delight to see him grow into a beautiful boy. He seemed poised to be a tall guy (maybe even taller than me eventually.)

It's so surreal writing this; this story was not meant to be like this. We dreamed that he would grow into a handsome young man, a solid first born to his siblings, a great car enthusiast and adventurer and a leader in his generation. But as Proverbs reminds us, many are the plans in a man's heart, but God's purpose will prevail. God purposed that he be with us for those 7 years, and God has purposed that he leaves us at this time. May He grant us the strength to find peace with this in time.

Farewell our beautiful boy.

Rest with the angels

Finn.
